SHY Insiders

Connect with people, share opportunities and build collaboration across Yorkshire's Space sector.

What is the Insider Community?

SHY Insider is a new initiative bringing together individuals, researchers and organisations with an interest in Yorkshire's growing space sector. Through a private LinkedIn discussion group, members can share ideas, connect with others and explore opportunities for collaboration across academia and industry.

Who can join?

The community is open to anyone with a professional interest in Yorkshire's space sector, including academics, researchers, businesses, industry professionals and individuals working in related fields. You can join as an individual without needing to formally represent your organisation.

Can my organisation be featured?

Individuals who are authorised to represent their organisation can also choose to submit details of their organisation's space-related capabilities and facilities. With the appropriate approval given at sign-up, SHY will feature this information alongside the organisation's name and logo on our website, helping to promote the breadth of Yorkshire's space-sector expertise.

How do I sign up?

1. Complete the form: Register as an individual, with the option to provide additional organisational information if you have the appropriate authority.
2. Receive a welcome email: SHY will contact you following your registration.
3. Join the conversation: SHY will invite you to the private Insider Community LinkedIn discussion group.
4. Get your organisation featured (optional): Where authorised and approved, SHY will showcase your organisation's name, logo, facilities and capabilities on the Insider Community page of our website.

What happens next?

Once you're part of the community, you can discover opportunities shared by SHY, participate in discussions, exchange ideas and connect with potential collaborators across academia and industry. Members can participate as individuals without formally representing their organisation, while authorised representatives can also help promote their organisation's space-sector capabilities through the SHY website.
